The seminar on Mining and Energy supported by UWA Business School was a productive meeting attracted more than 40 people from universities in WA, RBA, DOIR, DTF, BHP, Rio Tinto, and SVT Engineering Consultants. There were two young researchers from ANU and the Monash University sponsored by FIRN.

The papers presented cover the topics of steel making cost, the usefulness of accounting data about extractive industry operations, the impact of corporate governance compliance on mining IPOs, cross-country comparisons of energy and emissions intensities, and the exchange rates and commodity currencies. The seminar provided researchers an opportunity to discuss their research and receive feedback.
